Keller builds own ham sets

Glen Keller, 213 N. Stoddard St., sits in his "shack", normally known as a basement, amid radio equipment that he has built over the years. Only a few pieces of equipment were purchased.

Ham for 17 years

Having been a ham radio operator for 17 years, Harold Pitman, 505 N. Kingshighway, is familiar with the procedure used in calling another ham. Pitman has spoken with such famous hams as Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and movie star Andy Devine.

Mandatory fuel controls are urged

FLORISSANT, Mo. (AP) — The implementation of a mandatory allocation program for all petroleum products was supported here today during congressional hearings on the nation's fuel shortage.

Robert Cavin, the executive director of the Society of Independent Gasoline Marketers of America, told members of a House subcommittee that the current voluntary allocation program, which began May 10, is not working.

"It is apparent that the voluntary allocation program has been a dismal failure in-so-far as its effectiveness in preserving the independent segment of the (gasoline) industry is concerned," said Cavin, whose organization represents some 20,000 service stations in the United States.

The Subcommittee on Special Small Business Problems is chaired by Rep. Bill Hungate, D-Mo., who said the subcommittee will make a report on the nation's fuel shortage to congress.

"Our members remain threatened with bankruptcy or large economic losses because they continue to be denied their historic share of gasoline supply," Cavin told the subcommittee.

He aid more than 1,500 gasoline stations have already been forced to close nationwide.

In earlier testimony, Rep. Bill Burlison, D-Mo., said farmers in his southeastern Missouri district have complained about the shortage of fuel as it affects their business and said "a mandatory allocation must be implemented."

The voluntary allocation program, administered by the federal Office of Oil and Gas of the Interior Department, was designed to assure that the needs of independent marketers and refiners were met. Under the program, each oil supplier was asked to make available the same percentage of its total supply of crude oil and products that it did during the first part of 1972.

Duke Ligon, director of the OOG, said the voluntary program is confronted with basic legal and supply difficulties.

The lack of adequate personnel has hampered the efforts of the voluntary program, Ligon said.

"Oil will be called upon to meet the difference," Ligon said. "Additional strains on fuel oil supplies will be encountered if some coal and oil are not able to be used because of environmental restrictions on their sulfur content."

Local men 'ham it up' as hobby

By DONNA SATTERFIELD

Glen Keller and Harold Pitman of Sikeston and Otis Lancaster of Matthews Route Two are "hams", but they're not actors, they're amateur radio operators.

After reading an article in Popular Science titled "How to Make A Wireless," in 1913 Keller built his own radio from a spark coil.

"I was just a kid," he recalled. "My brother wasn't interested in radios, but I got him to go to one end of our farm with the transmitter to call me, so I could see if it worked. When nothing came over the receiver, I went to check on him, and he was sound asleep." Later, a neighbor helped him and proved that the radio worked.

Keller got his amateur license in 1922 when ham radio operations were regulated by the Department of Commerce instead of the Federal Communications Commission. His first license is endorsed by Herbert Hoover, who was secretary of commerce at the time.

Keller met a man who worked with him at Chaffee for Missouri Utilities who had the money to build a radio, but didn't have the "know-how." He and Keller collaborated and built a radio with spark equipment. Later, when radios used tubes, Keller invested $5 of his $50 - a- month paycheck to buy his first tube, which rolled off the table and broke.

Keller has communicated with operators from Peru, Mexico, South Africa and South America and has many letters and postcards from fellow hams. A few months ago he spoke with a Japanese man on a boat going into Tokyo Bay.

Keller has received several citations for emergency assistance. In 1937 he was cited for his aid in the Mississippi River flood and in 1947 for a tornado.

Although Keller has been an amateur radio operator for many years, he admits he gets more pleasure from making his equipment than using it. He has built all but a few pieces of the equipment he owns.

Harold Pitman, owner of Pitman's Cleaners, who had "fooled around" with radios since his high school days, got his amateur radio license in 1956 while already established in the dry cleaning business.

Pitman explained that, to get a license, one must learn the Morse code and pass a written test on the theory of radio. Beginner, or novice, is the first class in six classes of hams, which include technician, conditional, general, advanced and extra. Pitman belongs to the "extra" group.

All hams are on a first name basis, said Pitman, who has talked to Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and actor Andy Devine, both well- known hams.

Both Pitman and Keller are members of the American Radio Relay League. The only membership requirement is a subscription to QST Magazine, which contains comments from the FCC and articles about and from other hams.

Pitman and Keller are also members of Military Affiliate Radio System (MARS), which is affiliated with the Signal Corps of the U. S. Navy.

MARS is a frequency above that of a regular amateur frequency and is basically used for weather information and emergency communications. The frequency is also used for training sessions, which are held at 6 p.m. every third Wednesday and Sunday. About 100 members check in every night.

Pitman explained a new frequency called MID-CARS aimed at helping those hams who need assistance while on the road. When a ham gets in trouble, he can radio another ham on this frequency from his car.

Rep. Burlison picks field secretary

WASHINGTON — Missouri 10th District Rep. Bill D. Burlison today announced that James C. Dunscombe of Clarkton, Mo., has been hired as his district field secretary.

"I am delighted to have for the first time a full- time field secretary to serve our district. With 467,000 people and 12,000 square miles, it is essential that I have a person who can devote full time to the job," said the Cape Girardeau Democrat.

Dunscombe owns a small farm in north Dunklin County. Since 1969 he has served in the Missouri Department of Agriculture in Jefferson City, presently holding the position of director of the Grain, Feed and Seed Division.

Prior to that he served many years as an Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service field man for the USDA, in which he supervised the work of the Southeast Missouri counties. Dunscombe has also had experience as a grain elevator manager in the Bootheel.

Dunscombe, a Democrat, had been asked to stay on as head of the Grain, Feed and Seed Division in Jefferson City under the new administration.

"It is a great tribute to the ability of James Dunscombe that his services are desired by the Missouri Department of Agriculture regardless of the politics of the administration. Our district is fortunate to have a man of this caliber to assist me in serving Southeast Missouri," concluded Burlison.

Sikeston revises bond schedule

Bonds to free prisoners from the city jail have been changed, according to acting police chief Leon Culp.

Bonds have been altered to bring the bond schedule in line with the seriousness of the offense and to round off the figures on some of the bonds. Culp said the new schedule is only a guideline and size of the bond can be altered if the offense is considered serious.

For instance, he said the new bond for peace disturbance by fighting is $75, but if a person is seriously injured in the fight, the bond for those held could be much higher.

The new schedule has raised the bond for driving while intoxicated from $110 to $250 for the the first offense. Bond for the second offense will be $350.

Discharging a firearm in the city goes from $110 to $150, peace disturbance by fighting from $60 to $75 and careless and imprudent driving from $29 to $30.

Bonds for speeding on the first offense are $1 per mile and court costs for up to 10 miles per hour over the speed limit and $2 per mile and court costs for over 10 miles per hour over the speed limit.

For the second offense bond will be $2 and costs up to 10 miles per hour and $3 per mile and costs for over 10 miles per hour above the speed limit.

Bonds were dropped from $29 to $25 for curfew violations and vagrancy and from $15 to $11 for overtime parking tickets.

Man arrested for bribery attempt

Police arrested Kelly H. Lindsey, 602 N. Main St., at 7 p.m. Wednesday for attempting to bribe a police officer and for public intoxication and disorderly conduct.

Police said two officers, John Blankenbeker and Gary Brown, were called to Red's Tavern, 109 W. Malone Ave., when Lindsey allegedly attempted to start a fight with a bartender over money that Lindsey owed.

According to police, Lindsey allegedly offered Blankenbeker a $10 bill to forget the incident. When Blankenbeker refused, Lindsey allegedly offered the money to Brown who also refused.

At that point, Sgt. Thurman Burns arrived and was offered the money. He refused, also, and ordered Lindsey arrested for attempting to bribe a police officer.

As Lindsey was being placed in his cell at the police station, police said he offered Blankenbeker the money once more and again was refused.

Lindsey was released on $55 bond on the public intoxication charge. Acting police chief Leon Culp said today that bribery charges would be filed Friday, if they were filed at all.

Other arrests announced today include:

Elvis Kaiser, 205 E. Murray Lane, peace disturbance; Dick Green, 225 Felker, assault and battery; Charles Crenshaw, 104 Alabama, two counts of assault and battery; Charles Freeland, 410 Short St., Trailer 10, assault and battery; and Lorene Starkey, Route Four, driving while intoxicated.

ZIPPING THE MAIL

A decade ago, on July 1, 1963, the Post Office Department introduced the Zone Improvement Plan, popularly known as Zip Code. Unlike so many other ventures of the nation's postal system, this one seemed to work. In 1972 the U. S. Postal Service (successor to the Post Office Department) reported that the five-digit Zip Code appeared on more than 82 per cent of the approximately 50 billion pieces of first - class mail handled in this country.

Under the Zip Code system, the United States is divided into 552 mail- delivery areas, each represented by a three- digit number. The final two digits in the five- number code indicate the postal office or installation closest to the point of delivery. Zip-Coded first- class letters are now sorted on a computerized machine called the Zip Mail Translator, a device which is supposed to cut down processing time.

When Zip Code was introduced, a public relations campaign promised faster delivery to persons who wrote the five appropriate numbers, in proper sequence, on outgoing mail. The public was skeptical at first, but eventually fell in line. A nationwide survey conducted by the Associated Press in May 1972 indicated, however, that Zip Code use did not ensure speedier delivery. Of the 800 letters included in the survey, 19 per cent of those with Zip Code reached their destinations sooner than those without it. But almost as many of the Zip-Coded letters -- 17 per cent -- took longer to deliver than uncoded ones, and there was no appreciable difference in delivery time for the remaining 64 per cent.

There are explanations, to be sure. They include postal employee cutbacks, fewer pickups and deliveries, shorter work weeks, computer breakdowns, and increasing mail volume. Still, Postal Service officials insist that things are looking up. The receiver and sender of mail will have none of that. Sometimes it seems as if Pony Express would be faster.

'TELEPHONE GAP'
BEING CLOSED

In addition to all their other problems, Japanese and American businessmen are separated by a "telephone gap."

It's more than a matter of language differences, or the fact that Americans say "Hello" and the Japanese say something like Moshe Dayan's first name repeated twice in rapid succession.

The Japanese prefer to conduct their important business matters on a face- to - face basis and use the telephone merely for handling minor details.

Americans, on the other hand, routinely make major deals over the phone and confirm their verbal agreements in writing later.

Now,, however, the gap is being closed, at least from one side. Japanese businessmen in Honolulu are attending a new international management school to learn how to use the telephone in the American way so that they can deal more effectively with their counterparts in the United States.

The instruction is being given by the Hawaiian Telephone Co. as part of a five- month course conducted by the Japan - American Institute of Management Science, established last year by a large Japanese manufacturer of computers and communications equipment.

Japanese businessmen have been doing all right as it is, "telephone gap" or no. Wait until they learn how to wield the instrument with the verve of a Lyndon B. Johnson or Martha Mitchell.

NEW YORK (AP) — Now that the value of the dollar is down abroad, we can expect an influx of foreign tourists, all eager for bargains.

This is only fair. After all, when the dollar was king in the world money market, every American who could do so scraped together all his shekels and raced overseas to spend them at an advantage. Now it is only fair for the foreigner to do the same thing to us.

This puts us to considerable test as a nation. We are used to going over there to stare at other people. We aren't used to other people coming over here to stare at us.

They will be instructed by their own governments on the proper care and feeding of the natives they meet, and give advice on how not to alarm them.

As we are the natives, in this case, it becomes our duty to remain peaceful, avoid becoming restive under their scrutiny, and to extend them every hospitality. For they will be coming here merely to extend the hand of fellowship and study our picturesque mores — not to abuse or exploit us.

If you are uneasy as to how to greet foreign tourists, here are a few useful tips:

Do not run at their approach. They will not harm you. If they try to greet you by shaking hands, shake hands with them. If they want to greet you by rubbing noses, cough in their faces slightly, then back away and giggle.

Naturally, they will expect you to try to sell them something. All natives are supposed to sell things. So pull something out of your pocket and name an exorbitant price for it. This won't insult the tourists. Tourists in every country expect to haggle.

Tourists everywhere also like to sample the native food. If the tourist you meet has a yellow skin and almond eyes, take him to a pizza parlor. But if he says "I gotta cousin in Brooklyn — I spikka da English hokay," take him to a good Chinese restaurant.

Should a tourist ask you to show him the sights, do not guide him to a museum or cathedral. He has all of those kinds of things he wants to see in his own country. Take him to a discotheque, a topless go-go show, a pornographic movie, or a big department store. Of course, he will suspect you get a secret 10 per cent commission from anything he buys at the department store — but then you'd think the same thing of him if he took you to a bazaar in his country.

A final tip: Do not become offended if a foreign tourist, in parting, thrusts a shower of foreign coins in your palm as an expression of his gratitude.

If the dollar ever makes a comback, you can take the coins to his country and spend them as a tourist there.

A TIME FOR REALITY

Misinformation or lack of information holds a greater potential for trouble in this complex nuclear age than any other factor in present- day life. Complicating the problem is the fact that misinformation often gets wider attention than truth-- at least for a time.

A leaflet issued by one of the largest electric utility companies in the U.S., serving a major part of California, contains a statement by the president of the company that is full of the kind of information that people need. For example, he answers the charge that his company is trying to build a "picket fence" of atomic power plants along the California coastline. He calls such a charge "... unadulterated fiction" and cites facts to prove it. He says, "There are 1,072 miles of California coastline. If all the nuclear plants proposed to be built along the coast by all California utilities, both public and private, clear out to the year 1990, were placed side by side they would take up about 5 miles of coastline. That's less than one half of 1 percent." Among other things, he points out that, "Tradeoffs are a part of life." The comforts and conveniences of modern living depend upon an efficient utility system with adequate resources to provide reliable service. He adds, "If you want to clean up the environment, if you want your industry... your hospital, your school and your community to be served, you must have energy. If you want high employment now and also job opportunities for the newcomers to the job market, you need more, not less, energy."

Countless scores of authorities in every walk of life are disseminating information on energy to help offset the mass of misinformation about utilities and the energy industry that threatens both the enviroenment and the fabric of society itself. It's time to heed the facts.

HISTORY OF DRUGS
V

In 1492, Columbus and his crew saw natives smoking bundles of "certain dried leaves with a distinct fragrance." This was tobacco, a substance widely known and long used throughout the Americas. Europe quickly adopted tobacco and the technique of smoking.

At first, tobacco was thought to be a great medical discovery, a "wonder drug," but popular use spread far beyond any curing purposes. Within 150 years, tobacco had spread throughout the entire world as sailors and traders carried it even into isolated parts of Africa and Asia.

James I of England strongly condemned tobacco smoking in 1604 as a "barbarous, vile and stinking custom." Nevertheless, as use increased, he imposed heavy taxes on it.

In 1630, Pope Urban VIII decreed: "Anyone caught using tobacco inside a Spanish church will be excommunicated."

Peter the Great tried to stop the use of tobacco in Russia with death penalties and mutilations in 1700.

Such early anti- tobacco decrees were to no avail. And, in 1883, James Duke, the American industrialist, installed a cigarette- making machine in his tobacco factory, marking the start of the age of the cigarette.

RESERVOIR OF COMMON SENSE

The extraordinary has been achieved by a major utility company. It has put its critics on television! In an attempt to combat common misconceptions about the utility industry, this company created a 13- week series of TV commercials on topics such as rate increases, pollution and nuclear power dangers.

Each commercial featured antiutility views, followed by the reply of a company spokesman. Studies have revealed that after seeing the series, 79 per cent of those sampled felt the company was "honest and forthright" in its presentation. Eighty- four per cent not only felt the company displayed civic - mindedness in facing up to the important issues but agreed with its efforts to solve the problems. A different sampling showed 24 per cent switching from a negative to a positive attitude toward the utility company.

That this was a dramatic example of effective communication with the public goes without saying, but there is more to the story. This electric company operates in a major East Coast metropolitan area. In such high density population areas, there is often resentment of practically every piece of construction that an electric company undertakes -- no one wants a transmission line or a power station next to them, but everyone wants electric service. This is a perfect recipe for conflict. Even in these circumstances, when wide- open dialogue was set up between an electric company and its most violent critics before the eyes of the public and problems were talked out, people listened, and they reached fair conclusions. Immense amounts of misunderstanding that if perpetuated could Jeopardize electric service for hundreds of thousands of people were lessened.

This experience provides encouraging evidence that when treated with the respect which it is due, the great reservoir of common sense within the American people is very much alive and still capable of bringing the nation through the most difficult of times.

DRUG ADDITION
CURB LAUNCHED
BY SEA AID

The marine industry is helping to set a new course for young men who have been set adrift by drug addiction.

Recognizing the need for skilled manpower in the marine industry, the South Street Seaport, with the help of the New York City Addiction Service Agency, has launched a new school to train former addicts in inboard and outboard engine mechanics electrical systems, and other skills leading to jobs in the marine industry.

Job placement for each graduate is virtually guaranteed through the efforts of industry professionals who are members of the Seaport committee that conceived and developed the program and is supervising its operations, says David Brink, program director.

Classes are held on board the old ferryboat General William H. Hart, docked at the South Street Seaport on the East River. The nonprofit school hopes to graduate some 60 students at the end of its first year.

SMALL BUSINESSES
ENDANGERED

The United States has always been known as a land of opportunity. One of the primary reasons is that in the past, an individual with ingenuity, determination and a little capital could start his own business. The structures of our society provided the freedom necessary for small businesses to succeed.

This is a highly desirable situation. The opportunity to go into business for oneself and become self- sufficient provides a measure of security and independence impossible in a society where men must be dependent on the state instead of their own abilities.

Unfortunately the rapid growth in size and power of our government in recent years has led to restrictions on business activity which are making it increasingly difficult for small businesses to be started or to be preserved once started.

Tax laws and regulatory activity are becoming ever more complicated, which means that the businessman who cannot afford to retain lawyers, accountants, etc., is at a distinct disadvantage when dealing with the government. There are so many government regulations that the small businessman has no way of knowing all of them, much less complying. Therefore he faces the constant danger of being put out of business whenever a government agent calls attention to any breach of regulations. Inheritance tax laws are so burdensome that many small businesses are forced to sell out rather than try to keep a business in the family.

One of the reasons our nation became great was its provision for maximum freedom for the personal enterpriser. We must act now to curb governmental power so that small businesses can once again flourish in our country. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Inside White House:
Why Nixon Toasted Friend, 'Chuck' Colson

WASHINGTON-- Always it was the sweet smell of success for the 42- year- old presidential intimate, Charles (Chuck) Colson. Always he delivered to Mr. Nixon. Constantly he and the President talked confidentially, often in the chief executive's hideaway den in the Executive Office Building just a few feet from Chuck's suite.

Those who really know the White House believe Colson was the single most powerful man in it--- second, of course, only to Mr. Nixon. Bob Haldeman ran the janissaries. Frequently, he was the line of communication between the President and Chuck. But Colson was THE man.

That's why he headed the 1972 campaign's secret "counterattack group."

And that's why some months ago, just before Chuck was about to leave his $38,000- a- year special counsel "job," President Nixon invited him to a small restaurant near Key Biscayne (Fla.). There he called in a photographer. There Mr. Nixon toasted him for the camera. There the President said to the one man he trusted fully, respected fully, used fully, and still trusts, hang this picture in your new office so all your clients can see it.

It was all before the deluge. Mr. Nixon had much to be grateful for. Back in 1969, it had been Colson's first major assignment-- bring in the labor movement, swing them behind "us," get them into the new majority, checkmate the perpetually furious AFL— CIO President Meany, remember organized labor with its powerful political machine will be running against us in '72.

Chuck moved. With the help of George Shultz, then Secretary of Labor, Teamsters officials, who rarely in recent years had been on federal committees and commissions, were named.

It was Colson who first saw the chance and worked out the strategy to use the 2.2 million- member Teamsters Brotherhood to offset the AFL— CIO and neutralize Meany. He wooed and won the Teamsters' then acting- general president Frank "Fitz" Fitzsimmons.

It was Chuck who brought him into the oval room some years ago and sat there while the President told Fitz he (Nixon) knew what it meant to be hit by wave on tidal wave of press criticism and that the Oval Office door always would be open to Fitz. No Teamster has had this entry since the late Teamsters president Dan Tobin kicked off President Roosevelt's fourth- term campaign at the Statler- Hilton.

But how could the Teamsters endorse a President who kept their own president in prison? So Chuck moved to get Jimmy Hoffa's sentence commuted. So did hundreds of AFL— CIO labor leaders. So did the militant Leonard Woodcock, United Auto Workers president who was runner- up to Sen. Ton Eagleton for the vice presidential slot with George McGovern.

So Jimmy came out. And "they" proceeded to bury him. Slowly Fitz and his Teamsters executive board members isolated Jimmy and cut him down.

Thus Colson delivered the labor force which saved the President several times in crises.

It was Chuck who brought in the hard hats. There was one moment in very early May 1970, when the White House called New York Building and Construction Trades president Pete Brennan. One of the latter's aides just didn't think it was important. No need to pass it on. The White House only spelled trouble to these unions in the past.

So Chuck called a newspaper friend who called Pete and Pete called the White House and there was an enormous hard- hat demonstration which almost sank lower Manhattan into the famed harbor.

Thus Chuck delivered the hard hats. But he had to deliver in turn. This could be done mostly by delivering the U.S. Department of Labor.

The public has a romantic view of this hysterical capital--- they see the "news" as emanating mostly from the White House, the Justice Department with its FBI, Departments of Defense and State, and a few open Senate hearings. But they overlook what I believe to be the most powerful domestic force--- the Labor Department. It can make or break industries. It can cost huge businesses huge profits.

It can make or break union leadership. And it has. It can call in all union books; it can reverse elections. It has. It can close up a factory through the use of the Office of Safety and Health Administration. It can cut orders and blacken the reputation of multinational corporations through the Office of Federal Contract Compliance. It is, therefore, a powerful police force.

Colson and Haldeman sought to control it. When Chuck wanted Meany attacked, he told the Secretary of Labor, Jim Hodgson, that Mr. Nixon wanted him to issue a statement saying that Meany was out of step with labor's rank and file. Hodgson did. Meany stormed when this statement hit the wires.

But it was the intellectually accomplished and brilliant young Under Secretary of Labor Larry Silberman who balked Colson frequently. Silberman was close to the construction unions and was universally acceptable as the incoming Secretary of Labor. His political enemy vetoed him. Silberman then was promised a Federal Court of Appeals judgeship. At a White House reception after the '72 election, Mr. Nixon actually congratulated Silberman on the coming appointment. It never came through. Silberman was vetoed without the President's knowledge--- reportedly by Haldeman and Colson.

And after Colson left the White House, Haldeman sure wanted Chuck Colson's control of the Labor Department. But the new apointee, Pete Brennan, fought him. They had a showdown session in the White House. Brennan won. Haldeman vowed to get him. The rest is history.

But from now on, let the public beware. Never ignore the Labor Department. It is vast. It is all- powerful. It was one of the biggest stakes the Haldeman camarilla fought.

It can deliver most of the nation's business and labor.

Basically, it is the source of much of labor's influence.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

How To Get 'Listed'

WASHINGTON-- Getting on the White House enemy list has become the latest status symbol in Washington. I would have been disappointed if I hadn't made the list of top 20 enemies.

Rival politicians like Senators Ed Muskie and George McGovern used to be called opponents, not enemies. Celebrities like Gregory Peck and Bill Cosby, who have criticized President Nixon, used to be called critics, not enemies.

Now the White House lists them as "enemies," to be harassed through government investigations. Few private individuals can stand up against the awesome power of the federal government. No private bank account can match the bottomless vaults of the U.S. Treasury. No private staff can marshall the manpower available to the government.

Yet the White House, according to the memos flushed out by the Watergate investigation, was determined to use this government power to "get" or "screw" political opponents.

I became aware months ago that the White House was seeking to discredit and, if possible, to destroy me. I decided finally that the best defense was to lay out the facts in the open. "The word has gone out from the White House," I wrote on February 7, "to 'nail' Jack Anderson."

I named staff chief H.R. Haldeman as the White House official behind the move. I described "Haldeman's cold, calculated hostility towards the press" and quoted a White House source as saying Haldeman "has an absolutely evil attitude relative to the press."

WHITTEN'S ARREST

More specifically, I wrote that "the word was passed to the Justice Department to try to make a case against us." This led to the abortive arrest of my associate Les Whitten. A federal grand jury, however, refused to indict him, and the Justice Department was forced to drop the charges.

White House press spokesman Ron Zeigler, with an unusual show of emotion, described as "wrong! wrong! wrong!" my charge that Haldeman was trying to nail us. Now the enemy lists and ugly memos out of the White House portray the true attitude of the men formerly around President Nixon.

It is also worth examining how I wound up on the White House enemy list. A review of my past columns shows I wrote dozens of favorable stories about President Nixon. I reported, for example, that he had evidence the Democrats had stuffed the ballot boxes in Illinois, Missouri and Texas in the 1960 election. Yet he turned down partisan appeals that he use the evidence to overturn the election results, saying "I damn well will not be a party to creating (a constitutional crisis) just to become President."

I told how he had paid all the college expenses of two black students without their knowledge, how as a college student himself he had waited each evening for a crippled classmate to help him up the stairs of their boarding house.

From sources who had gone to the Moscow summit meeting with Nixon, I wrote how he had broken the impasse over disarmament by leaning forward and telling Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev bluntly: "Dammit, let's settle it."

What landed me on the enemy list, apparently, was my access to unauthorized information embarrassing to the Nixon Administration. In early 1971, the White House analyzed my columns carefully for three months.

HALDEMAN'S MEMO

A confidential report to Haldeman acknowledged: "Anderson does, indeed, have access to intelligence digests, and he proves it on a daily basis. It also appears his reference to private Presidential memoranda is valid, but most likely when such material leaves the White House and is circulated on an agency level.

"On more than one occasion, examination of a Presidential quote in context indicates strongly that the leak came not from within the White House, but from the agency concerned with the subject matter.

"Anderson's comment regarding 'some of the transcripts of confidential minutes' possibly refers to verbatim quotes of comments made at White House leadership meetings..."

It was suggested that "an overt firing of a person directly connected with a leak would go a long way towards making the ability of the Andersons of the world to gain White House information both difficult and hazardous."

The White House was unable, however, to find my sources. Instead, I wrote even more embarrassing stories about how President Nixon had lied to the public about the India- Pakistan conflict. Then I published the Dita Beard memorandum, which linked a $400,000 offer from International Telephone and Telegraph with the settlement of its antitrust troubles.

These were the crimes, apparently, which made me an enemy of the White House. Almost every public figure who criticized the President wound up on the enemy list.

But the existence of the enemy list is revealing, most of all, about the people in the White House. It shows they were suffering from a pathological paranoia.

Universities fighting for funds

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)— Being the president of a state university in the 1960s meant adding new teachers, classes and facilities to handle enrollments that for a few years were increasing by 20 per cent annually.

Appropriations were lobbied for through favored legislators by the process called "logrolling," which meant one school gets a new big building now and others get something smaller or must wait until the next time around.

But being a university president this year means being a target for a growing number of hostile lawmakers who want to take money away from higher education.

Dr. Warren C. Lovinger is an example. As president of Central Missouri State University for the last 17 years, he is said to run "a tight ship."

But for the last two weeks Lovinger has been under fire for allegedly padding enrollment figures. The legislators say Lovinger is one of the better examples of a university president who has built his own little kingdom.

Dr. C. Brice Ratchford, who runs the four-campus University of Missouri system, also is taking some heat. In defending MU's request for an extra $21 million for the next fiscal year, Ratchford at one point told the House appropriations chairman he would resign if he thought he would be an obstacle for the legislature approving a significant increase in the proposed $118 million budget.

Only a third of the increase was granted. Sen. Richard Webster, R-Carthage, said he would have voted for more if Ratchford would resign. Webster charged Ratchford cooked his own goose by mounting a letter-writing campaign against the legislature through MU's extension division.

Ratchford told his board of curators last Saturday not to look for any money for new programs in the next 10 years. He said higher education no longer enjoys a "sacred status" with the legislature. "There are calls on every hand for accountability and productivity," he said.

What's behind the hard-nosed stand by the legislature?

Two facts:

—The cost of public higher education in Missouri has skyrocketed from $31 million in 1962 to $167 million last year. In the next fiscal year it jumps another $5 million.

—Enrollments are now leveling off.

Last fall the number of incoming freshmen at state-supported university decreased 10.8 per cent. The vacancy rate of classrooms and dorms at many of the schools is growing.

It is the responsibility of the legislature to appropriate university funds. But House Appropriations Chairman James "Jay" Russell, D-Florisant, says: "We do not have enough information."

A subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee was formed to investigate university spending and it began with a demand that Lovinger explain a 20 per cent discrepancy in the number of students reported by CMSU for appropriations and the number listed in the student directory.

It turned out CMSU was counting continuing education students, despite a directive from the Commission on Higher Education not to do so. Lovinger and other presidents disagree with the directive.

The legislators also grilled Lovinger on starting a flying school at CMSU without legislative approval. They joke about Lovinger having "his own air force." Lovinger explained that an alumnus donated the air field and student fees cover the costs.

At the first meeting with the university presidents, the subcommittee made each president swear to tell the truth about appropriations. The discussions were tape recorded and some observers said it looked like the Watergate hearings.

The state gives support to 26 institutions of higher learning. Most of the money goes to the four MU campuses, five smaller state universities, Lincoln University and Missouri Southern and Missouri Western universities.

Don Lindenbusch, in charge of financial planning and development for the commission on higher education, says that while inflation is the cause of much of the increased costs, there is growing evidence that the state's higher eduation system has been overbuilt.

The total expenditure for public and private universities in Missouri went from $286 million in 1966-67 to $491 million in 1971-72.

The private institutions showed an overall drop in expenditures last year, from $194 million to $191 million. But the cost of operating public universities continues to rise.

Lindenbusch said the reason the private schools are cutting back is because they have to— the funds just aren't there.

Dr. Mark Scully, president of Southeast Missouri State University, said the legislature has been good to him for the last 15-20 years. "I'm pretty good at getting a dollar's worth out of it," he said, and added: "We are due to cut back with the enrollment at hand."

Asked if there was jealousy among the presidents in getting money from the state, Scully said, "Oh my, yes."

On the charge of building kingdoms, Scully said, "any man interested in his job loves to see it flourish."

Scully said he was short of funds when he enrolled as a student at the school he is now president of. He wants SEMSU always to give a student "a chance for education if he has any money or not, and if he'll work."

What the university presidents value most is the autonomy to control their own institutions. One problem with this is the funding of duplicate programs.

Ratchford said the big problem ahead is phasing out lowpriority classes. But starting a new program is always easier than dropping an old one, he said.

Airliner lands safely

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A hijacked Argentine airliner with 26 persons aboard landed safely in Havana today after stops in Argentina, Chile, Peru and Panama, a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Adminstration here said.

"All we know is that it's down on the ground," the spokesman said.

The Boeing 737 left Panama for Havana at 4:21 a.m. EDT

The plane was on the ground in Panama 51 minutes.

Eighty persons — 74 passengers and a crew of six — were reported aboard the plane when it was hijacked Wednesday on flight from Buenos Aires to northern Argentina. Forty-nine passengers were released in Santiago and another six in Lima. But another Argentine pilot joined the flight in Lima because he was familiar with the route to Panama.

There were conflicting reports of the number of hijackers. Some of the passengers freed in Santiago reported only one — a young man wearing a poncho, armed with hand grenades and a sawed-off shotgun. He said he was a member of the People's Revolutionary Army, an Argentine Marxist guerrilla group. But the Lima control tower said the pilot of the plane, Capt. Edgardo Dursi, reported there were "six very determined" hijackers.

Man beat up over woman

PUXICO — William Braswell, about 48 years old, is in satisfactory condition in Veterans Hospital in Poplar Bluff following a beating incident early today in front of a Puxico tavern.

According to a spokesman for the Stoddard County sheriff's Department, three men reportecly beat up Braswell over a woman.

Two of the suspects have been identified, but the names have not been released and they have not been arrested.

Fireworks set off grassfire

Fireworks touched off a grassfire at 10:40 p.m. Wednesday in the field south of the Caproco Inc. plant and, west of Sikeston Country Club, according to the fire department.

The fireworks which touched off the fire apparently were from the display at the country club. Firemen said no damage was done.

Firemen were called at 2:10 p.m. Wednesday to the S.W. Kennedy home, 305 Virginia St. when a stove malfunctioned and caught some grease behind the stove on fire. Only minor damage was reported.

Gas station broken into

SCOTT CITY— Simmons Saveway Service Station was borken into Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning, the Scott County Sheriff's department announced today.

Taken were 60 cartons of cigarettes, two boxes of candy and $140 in cash.

Entry was gained by kicking down or removing part of the overhead door at the station.

Affair with doctor calls for psychiatry

Dear Ann Landers: Although I love my husband very much I was getting absolutely nothing out of our sex life. I mean zero. I faked it because I didn't want to hurt Joe's feelings.

Joe traveled in his business and I was alone a lot of the time. I found myself becoming depressed and physically ill. When I confided in my doctor, he told me I was "unfulfilled" and suggested that I take a lover. He convinced me that there is no such thing as a frigid woman, only incompetent males. When he offered to help me out and provide what he called "every woman's right," I was shocked. I told him I couldn't consider such a thing. Two weeks later I changed my mind.

My doctor and I saw each other once a week for nearly two years and now I'm in worse shape than ever. This clandestine affair has made me feel worthless and guilty. Every time I go to confession I lie a little and withhold a lot. Afterwards, I feel like killing myself. Now I realize I must have psychiatric help because I am becoming increasingly suicidal.

You have stated repeatedly in your column that in order to get anything out of therapy the patient must be completely truthful. I am afraid if I pour out everything to the psychiatrist I will damage the doctor with whom I had the affair. It was as much my fault as his and I don't need anything more to feel guilty about.

How can I be sure the psychiatrist will keep the information to himself? Is he under some sort of Hippocratic Oath to report the physician to the A.M.A. or the County Medical Society? Please help me. I am getting sicker.--- Anonymous Lady

Dear Lady: There is no need for you to name names. The psychiatrist isn't interested in the identity of your lover. The Hippocratic Oath doesn't say one doctor must turn in a colleague who is unethical. It DOES say, however, if you can't help a patient, you should at least not harm him. Too bad your internist didn't honor that promise.

Dear Ann Landers: "Smilin' Thru's" letter nauseated me. Your approval made matters worse. I am considered by friends and family to have a pretty good sense of humor but I'll be hanged if I could laugh my way through a marriage to a skirtchaser and part- time religious fanatic. That combination would gag a goat.

You might at least have sneaked in a sentence or two informing your readers that a man can divorce his wife. It's a good bet that the dumbbell who is "Smilin' Thru" will get dumped for something younger even though she boasts an uncanny knack for putting on a happy face when there's not a darned thing to be happy about.

My husband was no religious fanatic, but he was an incurable fanny- patter (anybody's). I didn't Smile-Thru. I got rid of him when I was 30. Now my laughter is for the flea- brain who is stuck with that sex maniac. Sign me--- D.C. Head On Straight

Dear D.C.: You did what was right for you and Smilin' did what was right for her. My advice to every woman whose husband has eye and feet trouble (roving eyes and itchy feet) is this: Ask herself, "Would my life be better or worse without him?"

That alone should be the basis for the decision. Most of those clowns have already decided what is best for them.

BERTRAND — Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Walker of Bertrand were honored with a 50th wedding anniversary reception on June 24 at New Bethel Baptist Church on Charleston Route One.

The event was hosted by the couple's six children: Wilburn Walker of Poplar Bluff; Kenneth Walker of East Prairie, Glen Walker of Mayfield, Ky.; LeRoy Walker and Judith Blaylock of Bertrand; and Barbara Briggs of Sikeston.

The children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren attended morning services at the church that morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker were married June 27, 1923 in Charleston.

Real communication includes recognition of one's feelings

By SHAREN K. HUNT
University of Missouri Extension

Communicate literally means to share, not only information, but oneself.

Chit chat can take up a lot of time, but recognizing feelings, yours and others, is true communication. It's like words of "Sounds of Silence" -- "Talking without speaking, hearing, without listening" -- where conversation happens, but little is understood.

Feelings have been compared to engine of a big oceanliner, which move it, but one can barely hear it. Or like an iceburg, where 90 per cent lies below the water, but affects lines of communication.

Exchanging information, opinions and judgments, body language and the way we use time and spare time are all factors in sharing or relating.

Newlyweds are often comical to long- term couples, the way they always keep physical separation so minimal. Each seems to look deep into the eyes of the one who's talking or stay together at parties or sit close in a car.

The belief prevails that you can figure how long they've been married by whether they snuggle close in a car or both hug to their own side.

Talking without looking or always from behind the barrier of a book, paper or mending says you're bored and not really interested in making effort to know the other one better.

Use of time is also a key in communication puzzle. Again, there's a difference in couples — if they spend as much time as possible together or both go their own way. A sense of selfness is important, but so is a look at your priority — job, children and a spouse.

Separate activities and clubs, always extra work for weekends and evenings or preoccuation with routine tasks when together give message that time together isn't so important.

How about TV? All gather around it, watch the same program, but the line of communication is between the individual and the program, not between each other.

These elements of communication in a marriage — exchange of information, opinions, use of body language and use of time and space — can help or hinder the process.

Some feel the highest barrier is the roles each assume without questioning. Assume breadwinner role as reason or excuse for overtime and out of town work, or homemaking role as preoccupation with children, cooking or cleaning. Clinging to roles may indicate absorption in provider role or smothering children with unneeded and unwanted attention.

Some questions to ask one another are:

--Is our conversation mostly an exchange of information? (car repairs, bills, gossip)

--Do we spend any time exchanging deeper thoughts (our goals in life, expectations for children, our responsibilities to the community)?

--Do we look at each other when talking, do we try to read their body language?

--How much time do we spend in activities as a couple as compared to separate pursuits, even if in house together?

--How much time should I spend working after regular hours or how much can children do for themselves that I'm now doing for them?

Communication in marriage is essential; it's listening with the heart.

(Adapted from article by O. J. and Roger Rudd, co-ordinating couple for the Hudson Valley area of marriage encounter).

Pemiscot owes $19,5677 in mental health funds

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri Department of Mental Health records show 33 counties owe $953,536 for indigent patients from their areas who are being cared for in state institutions, The Kansas City Star reported in today's edition.

Counties are charged 3 per cent of the cost of caring for such patients, with the state covering the balance.

Of the total, the paper reported, St. Louis County and city are being billed separately for $714,864. Jackson County, which surrounds Kansas City, owes $107,544.

A Department of Revenue spokesman said the money is more than six months past due and a 6 per cent interest rate is being charged.

A superintendent at one of the state's 20 facilities said:

"We get patients sent to us who are comatose ... or terminally ill with cancer. Those patients should not be in a mental hospital. But there is no other place ... and if the mental hospital is free, then the charces are the county will send the patient there.

"State hospitals used to be the 'poor house,' but they are not any more.

3 fined in City Court

SWEETEST SWEET CORNS

There's only one way to enjoy really delicious corn—grow your own — and have the water boiling as you pick it fresh from the garden.

Sweet corn begins to convert its sugar content into starch immediately after it is picked. Most varieties will lose 50 percent of their flavor within 12 hours of being picked. The longer you keep any vegetable, the greater the vitamin loss.

In sweet corns, gardeners everywhere seem to demand two important qualities—sweetness first, and early ripening second.

One of the most remarkable new varieties of sweet corn is called Early Xtra Sweet, a bronze medal winner in the All-American Selections. It is two weeks earlier than Illini Xtra Sweet (regarded as the sweetest of sweet corns), has the same degree of sweet flavor, and is more uniform. There's just one thing to remember about both Illini Xtra Sweet and Early Xtra Sweet — they need isolating from other corns to avoid cross pollination, otherwise the extra sweet flavor will not develop to perfection.

8 traffic accidents injure 15

Eight traffic accidents Tuesday and Wednesday resulted in 15 injuries— six of which occurred in three accidents during the Fourth of July holiday traffic toll count, which began at 6 p.m. Tuesday and ended at midnight Wednesday— the highway patrol said today.

Gregory Lynn Sanders, 13, of Campbell was injured at 3:10 p.m. Tuesday when his motorcycle, southbound at a high rate of speed, went out of control on a curve and ran into a ditch on Route WW three miles north of Campbell.

Sanders received bruises, internal injuries and a broken left wrist and was taken to Doctors Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

Four persons were injured at 12:10 p.m. Tuesday on Highway 62 three miles east of Bertrand when a car driven west by Barney L. Jones, 47, of Hopkinsville, Ky., crossed the center lone on a curve and collided with a car driven by Mabel E. Willard, 47, of Bertrand.

Jones received chest injuries. Also injured in his car were Betty Jones, 42, and Vickie Jones, 15, who both suffered minor cuts, and Nancy Fristoe, 16, of Bertrand, who also suffered cuts. All four were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Two year- old Tammy Curtis of Matthews was injured in a traffic accident at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday on Highway 80 two miles east of Matthews when a car driven by her father, Harold Curtis, 24, of Matthews, struck a car driven by Melford Taylor, 61, of Sikeston from behind. The Taylor auto was stopped partly on the road.

The child received multiple bruises and Curtis suffered scratches and bruises. Both were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

An accident at 1:55 p.m. Tuesday three miles south of Perryville on Interstate 55 resulted in injuries to Alinda Sophia Loos, 48, of Jackson, a passenger in a car driven by Dorothy H. Myer, 44, of Jackson.

The accident occurred when another vehicle overtook the Myer auto and passed too closely. Mrs. Myer swerved her car to the right, lost control, skidded sideways and struck a guard rail.

Mrs. Loos received head injuries and a cut on the right knee. She was treated at a doctor's office in Jackson.

A car and a pickup truck collided at 3:50 p.m. Tuesday six miles west of Fredericktown on Highway 72 when a car driven west by Delmar B. Pogue, 54, of Fredericktown attempted to make a left turn into a driveway and was struck in the side by an eastbound pickup truck driven by Scott Reed, 40, of Fredericktown. The patrol reported Reed was passing a string of traffic.

Pogue received a cut on the left shoulder and was taken to Madison County Memorial Hospital in Fredericktown.

Jerry Dubose, 18, of St. Louis received serious injuries at 6 a.m. Wednesday when his automobile, traveling at an excessive rate of speed, ran into the back of a pickup truck driven by Edwin Scheurenberg, 60, of Kewanee. The pickup was knocked off the road and overturned five times.

Scheurenberg received serious cuts and a possible broken left leg. A passenger in the Dubose auto, James Jordan, 29, of St. Louis suffered arm cuts. Both were taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Student from C'ville lands movie role

CARUTHERSVILLE — Two University of Mississippi theater students are hitching their stars to Huckleberry Finn's overall straps, crooked smile, and bare feet this summer.

Frannie Fawcett of Oxford, Miss., and Dan Lantrip of Caruthersville, have won parts in the musical version of "Huckleberry Finn," produced by The Readers Digest and United Artists in Nauvoo, Ill. and Natchez.

Stars of the film are Jeff East, who had the role of Huck Finn in "Tom Sawyer," currently playing theaters across the United States; Harvey Kroman, Emmy-winning TV comedian on The Carol Burnett Show; Paul Winfield, nominated for an Oscar for his performance in "Sounder"; and David Wayne, the Broadway actor.

Filming in Natchez will continue from late June through mid- August; release date for the movie will be in 1974.

Dan was assigned the role of Kyle Grangerford, Miss Charlotte's horse riding and hurdle jumping brother. "They volunteered a double if I didn't want to do the riding and jumping," he said. "But I'll do it myself."

"I love my role," said Frannie, who received her master's degree in theater at Ole Miss last month, "and I've never worked with people any nicer than those who interviewed us. I play Charlotte Grangerford in 'Huckleberry Finn', and I have to run away."

The Ole Miss pair was auditioned earlier by the casting director, who had been supplied with photographs and resumes. Later a third University theater major, Joe Boris of Tallahassee, Fla., landed a role -- also as a member of the Grangerford family.

"Danny has a lot of lines in the movie," said Frannie. "My stock really shot up with my little brothers when I got his role, but then they found out mine is not a speaking part. Now ... I'm nothing!"

Dan, appropriately, once lived very near Hannibal, Mo., Mark Twain's hometown; he is scheduled to receive his degree in theater and English at Ole Miss in August.

"The director hasn't talked to us yet about accents," Dan said, "but I believe that's one reason they selected Natchez as a filming site. It's hard to affect a Southern drawl after it's lost." Joe Boris, third Ole Miss student in the movie, also has a speaking role.

At Ole Miss, Frannie starred in Hedda Gabler, Blythe Spirit, A Comedy of Errors, Pure as the Driven Snow, and directed The Glass Menagerie. Dan was in The Crucible, Beaux Strategem, Plaza Suite, and Wait Until Dark. He plans to enroll in graduate school but Frannie has other plans.

"I Hope," she exclaimed, "that this is the first of many films."

Rationing curbs travel

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Although most service stations in Kansas and Missouri either closed or rationed gasoline on Independence Day, most mostorists survived the holiday without becoming stranded.

Gasoline was available during the daytime but although it may have been limited to allotments of 10 gallons or $3. However, it was more difficult at night when most stations closed.

The Automobile Club of Missouri reported receiving calls asking for locations of open stations at night in Kansas City. "I don't expect hardly anything to be open," a dispatcher at the club said.

Hardest hit in the two-state area was central and northern stretches of the Kansas Turnpike. The Turnpike authority reported exceptionally light traffic between Topeka, Kan., and Kansas City for a holiday.

Rationing faced travelers at turnpike pulloffs near Lawrence and Topeka. Purchases were limited to seven gallons after a wait of up to 20 minutes to reach the pumps.

The highway patrol said about half of the stations along Interstate 70 were closed. All available troopers were on duty to help stranded motorists to the nearest station and back.

Larry Warders, a patrol dispatcher, said, "A lot of out-of-state travelers will be running through here and we can't tell them ahead about our fuel situation."

Only about one in 10 service stations were open in Topeka, with none of the major oil companies doing business. About half the stations in Wichita were open.

At Jefferson City in Missouri most stations were closed but police said rumors of shortages and closings caused many persons to stock up.

Lt. E. C. Hammerand of the Missouri Highway Patrol said, 'Some stations are limiting purchases to 10 gallons but this thing got a lot of publicity and a lot of people are staying home and many are reducing speeds."

At least 5 die in holiday traffic

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Bloomsdale, Mo., man was killed Wednesday night in a one-car mishap south of St. Louis on U. S. 61, bringing to six the number of persons killed on highways during the one-day holiday period in Missouri.

The Missouri Highway Patrol identified the victim of the U. S. 61 accident as Larry Clarence Ebert. Ebert, whose car left the highway and plunged into a creek bank, was dead on arrival at a Festus hospital.

On Wednesday, Jeffrey S. Nielson, 5, West Plains, Mo., was killed when the motorcycle operated by his father collided with a truck on a gravel road a mile and a half north of pottersville.

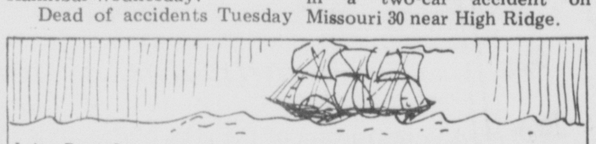
Also killed Wednesday was Anita Lawrence, 30, Kansas City, when her car went off Interstate 435 in Kansas City.

Gary Fohey, 26, Hannibal, died when he was struck by an auto on Missouri 61 near Hannibal Wednesday.

Dead of accidents Tuesday night:

Jerry Guthrie, 26, Union, when hit by a car near Center.

Larry Akers, 30, St. Louis, in a two-car accident on Missouri 30 near High Ridge.



John Paul Jones, America's first great naval hero, once served briefly as an admiral in the Russian navy.

Ozark schedules first flight

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An Ozark Air Lines plane was scheduled to leave Lambert Airport here shortly before 6 a.m. this morning for the first time in 11 weeks following the settlement of a strike by the airline's mechanics.

Ozark had been grounded since April 19 when the 560-member Aircraft Mechanics Fraternal Association walked off the job in a dispute over a new contract.

Last Saturday, however, the airline announced the resumption of 85 per cent of its flights today following the ratification of a new contract by the union.

"All cities except those on the East Coast are receiving at least some service, and in fact most of the service is being provided throughout the system," said Edward J. Crane, president of the air carrier, which had been serving 62 cities in 15 states prior to the strike.

Flights to the East Coast and some flights to some cities make up the 15 per cent of Ozark service that is being delayed for training of additional flight crews, a company spokesman said. Those flights, however, are scheduled to be back in the air within 30 days.

The new 27-month contract approved by the mechanics calls for the top hourly wage of a mechanic to be increased to $7 by March 1. The top wage under the old contract, that expired 13 months before the union went on strike, was $6.02 an hour.

Washington report

Senators urge President to implement mandatory fuel allocation program

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Midwest Conference of Democratic Senators, of which Senator Eagleton and I are members, has urged President Nixon to impose immediately a mandatory fuel allocation program to help end shortages that have already slowed or stopped many agricultural operations and threaten many public services in our State.

On April 30, Congress gave the President authority to impose mandatory fuel allocations under the Eagleton amendment to the Economic Stabilization Act.

On May 11, the Administration initiated a voluntary fuel allocation program but it has not met the needs:

1) The fuel shortages may cause serious repercussions to the food production chain from the farm to the market.

Based on many calls and [illegible] crops may stay in the fields because farmers do not have fuel to operate the machines to harvest them. Wheat harvests in Missouri and the Southwest have already been slowed. Unless action is taken immediately plantings already delayed may not be made. This would cause even more critical grain and soybean shortages and would escalate foodstuff prices.

Trucking companies have warned that, because of the shortage of their fuel supply, even if crops are harvested and dried, they may not be able to get them to the market.

2) Too many independent oil and gasoline distributors and stations have not received an equitable share of available products. In some instances wholesale prices have been set at or above the ceiling retail prices for these independents.

Missouri service stations are frequently open shorter hours and many are now closed on Sunday. Several independent stations have gone out of business because of difficulty getting gasoline and fuel oil and also because of the sharp increases in the price of the fuel they can buy.

In one case, a gasoline and fuel oil distributor who supplies 190 Missouri farm customers ran out of gasoline. My office contacted the Department of Interior's Office of Oil And Gas on the matter, and they were able to locate a nearby independent distributor who provided an emergency supply to keep the tractors running.

[illegible] district and not receive any bids from the 19 oil companies it asked to bid on supplying them with 220,000 gallons of gasoline for their school buses. Their present supplier agreed to supply them on a month to month basis, but at a 74 percent increase.

The school district serves 10,000 students and nearly 9,000 of them ride the bus to school.

The oil company also asked for an escalator clause for possible future price increases and would not sign a contract that they would supply the school district for the entire school year.

Cape post wins annual canoe race

SILVA — Young people from 14 Southeast Missouri counties participated in the annual James Goldrick Memorial Canoe Race Saturday on the St. Francis River.

First place went to Cape Girardeau Post 8, sponsored by [illegible] winning time was one hour and 15 minutes a new record for the four and one- half mile course.

Goldrick, the late advisor for Explorer Post 999 of Cape Girardeau, has been memorialized by this event in recognition of the high esteem for his leadership. The race was co-ordinated by post 999 and sponsored by Grace United Methodist Church of Cape Girardeau. More than 30 scouts participated in the race.

Higher interest rates to soon be available

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers soon will be able to earn higher interest rates on their savings accounts in banks and savings and loan associations, government officials said today.

The Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation—FDIC—are on the verge of announcing an increase of one-half percentage point in the maximum interest rate that commercial banks are legally allowed to pay on passbook savings accounts.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which regulates savings and loan associations, would be forced to go along with a similar increase so that the industry could stay competitive with banks.

But the chairman of the Home Loan Bank Board, Thomas Bomar, is reported to be extremely unhappy about the move. Bomar resisted any increase in the interest, it was learned.

If the Federal Reserve and the FDIC follow through on a tentative decision reached earlier in the week, banks could begin paying 5 per cent on passbook savings accounts, up from the present 4.5 per cent.

If the Federal Home Loan Bank Board falls into line, its ceiling on passbook savings accounts would go to 5.5 per cent, up from the current 5 per cent.

President considered resigning

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon discussed with his family the possibility of resigning because of the Watergate affair but took its advice not to because "it would be an admission of wrongdoing," says Julie Nixon Eisenhower.

In an interview marking her 25th birthday today, the President's daughter said events will show that her father had no advance knowledge of the breakin at Democratic National headquarters in 1972 and did not know about the subsequent alleged cover-up by White House personnel.

"I think he was really in the dark," Julie said of the President. She said Nixon had failed to discover the wrong-doings earlier than he did because "he just had complete faith in everyone around him."

Julie said her father discussed the possibility of resigning with his family in a session at Camp David, Md., the weekend after his April 30 speech in which he announced the resignations of aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman and the dismissal of counsel John W. Dean III.

"He was playing the devil's advocate, saying, 'Should I resign, would it be better for the country? Would the wounds heal faster?"

Julie said her father "really loves this country" and would do anything that was best for the nation.

But Julie said the President's family was opposed to resignation.

Jury to continue term

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A federal grand jury in Kansas City will continue its term through October to investigate possible corruption in state government and any connection to organized crime, says the U. S. Attorney for the Western District of Missouri.

The grand jury's term was to have expired last month, but U. S. Attorney Bert C. Hurn asked for the extension. No basis was reported for investigating the possible link with organized crime.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat reported from Kansas City today that an investigation into possible sales tax evasions in the state revenue department will be expanded to other areas of government.

The names of any other state departments were not reported. The investigation covers a three-year period before January of this year. The U. S. Justice Department and the U. S. Attorney have been looking into the possibility of sales tax evasions for most of the year. No arrests have been announced and specific findings had not been revealed.

Revenue Director James R. Spradling has estimated that businesses have failed to turn over up to $100 million in sales taxes to the state in the past three years, mainly because of poor collection methods.

Explaining some of the ham jargon, Pitman said that a "handle" is a person's name. "CQ" is a signal for anyone to answer the caller and "QTH" is one's address. "Reading the mail" means listening to the other hams converse. He noted that any ham is welcome to join in at any time.

Otis M. Lancaster, owner of Lancaster's Radio and TV Repair, got his Class B operator's license in 1947 when licenses were available in three classes, A, B and C. He obtained his class A license later the same year. The three class divisions have since been changed to the present 6 classes.

Lancaster calls another ham every morning in St. Petersburg, Fla. "It's just like having coffee with a neighbor," he said.

When asked if the hams ever get together, Lancaster described "Ham Fests", which are held four or five times a year. The last one was held at Wappapellow State Park. Lancaster said it's not unusual for a girl ham and guy ham to meet at the Ham Fest, fall in love and get married.

The hams also have a club, TRICO Radio Club, which was originally designed for members in the counties of Scott, Mississippi and Stoddard. The club meets every second and fourth Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the airport.

Lancaster says young and old alike are hams. The 12-year- old son of an amateur operator in Memphis, Tenn., has taken up his father's hobby. About an elderly blind lady who lives near St. Louis, Lancaster said, "The ham radio is her whole life."

And there are more hams in Sikeston than one knows, including Jerry and Mona Eakins, Carl Clayton, Wendell Farley, Marvin Scott, Bill Shain, Barney Miederhoff and "Blackie" Blackwelder.

Anyone interested in becoming an amateur radio operator may contact any ham or attend a TRICO meeting.

Cards rip Pirate pitching

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates are 12 games behind their 1972 pace, leading Manager Bill Virdon to an understatement.

"The pitching just hasn't been good," said Virdon following an 11-3 Pirates shellacking Wednesday at the hands of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Corroborating the summarization were 15 hits the Cards banged out for their fourth straight win, a decision dropping the dismayed Bucs to a 36-41 record.

A year ago Pittsburgh was 48-29 and sailing to a third straight National League East Division title.

This year the Pirates are 9½ games behind the front running Chicago Cubs and showing miseries related mostly to the wobbly pitching.

The Pirates, who recently won five in a row, owned a bloated 4.16 staff earned run average following 4-0 and 7-6 losses to the Cardinals Tuesday night.

"I'd say our hitting is adequate," commented Virdon, looking for consistency among starters. "But if you're asking whether we could use more pitching, I'd say it would help."

Pittsburgh's Bob Moose, 6-8, a shutout pitcher his last time out, was the latest to flunk the Pirates' toughest course Wednesday.

Moose fell behind 2-1 early but worked hitless second and third innings before the Cardinals exploded for eight runs off seven of their hits in the fourth.

The outburst made it easy for righthander Tom Murphy, 1-3, whose teammates hadn't scored for him in four previous starts.

Murphy surrendered 10 hits, including Al Oliver's 410-foot home run leading off the sixth inning, but went the distance for his first N.L. victory and the Cards' 22nd complete game.

Pittsburgh afterward moved to fortify its sagging pitching by purchasing the contract of righthanded reliever John Lamb from Charleston of the International League.

"I don't say it's any lower than any other bad day we've had," Virdon said in respect to the morale of the Pirates following the lopsided defeat.

"We might have scored a few more runs earlier last year than we are now," he reflected, "but I'd say our run production's close. We just need a pitcher."

Herrick proved to be too tough for Lewis as they gained only three hits off of him. His team gave him the backing needed for the win as Laseter, Walls and Murphy all blasted doubles. Lane also had a double added to his home run. Pizza Inn coasted to an easy victory with no serious threats coming from Lewis. Pollard was the losing pitcher.

A & B was slow to start and was behind 8-0 before finally scoring. Kiwanis made their hits counts as they had only seven to A & B's 11. Kiwanis came around for seven runs in the last inning which gave them the sure win. Echols was the winning and Nowell the losing pitcher.

Bridger, Basket lose

Ryan and Ziegenhorn were the winners in the American Little League Tuesday night by the same score. Ziegenhorn took the first game 13-3 over Flower Basket while Ryan downed Bridger 13-3 also.

Ziegenhorn had a major inning in the third which produced 10 runs to give them the advantage. Flower Basket could not break through after being shaken by the rally and had to take the loss. Gatler and Anderson both hit doubles for the winning team. Anderson also pitched the win. Baldwin hit the only extra base hit of the game, doubling for Flower Basket. Noel had the loss.

Ryan scored their runs consistently to pick up 13 and take the win. McKinner's pitches looked too good as Ryan blasted him to gain their runs. Polley was the lead hitter for Ryan as he slapped a double for the only extra base hit of the game. Doster was on the mound for Ryan.

New Madrid adds kite flyer

NEW MADRID — A thrilling kite flying performance by Ray Walls, holder of national and world records for Delta Wing kite flying, has been announced as an added attraction for spectators at the Jaycees second annual hydro speedclassic set for July 15 on the Mississippi River by general chairman Buck Hunter.

Walls, of Poplar Bluff, holds several national and world records in kite flying, among which are the national slalom title, national slalom record of three buoys on a 50- foot line, and world altitude record over land of 4,710 feet. Also, he reportedly is the only man to successfully fly behind a horse.

A four- year veteran of Delta Wing kite flying, Walls has appeared in exhibitions throughout the United States and in addition has taught between 50 and 60 persons to fly.

Movie actor Roger Moore, who plays the role of the new James Bond 007 agent was taught by Walls. Walls also served as technical advisor for a kite flying scene in Moore's latest Bond movie.

On Saturday the kite flying artist will leave New Madrid at 7:30 a.m. on a Delta Wing kite and will fly at a height of about 300 feet above the Mississippi River non- stop for 116 river miles to Cape Girardeau. This distance will break the previous world record of 72 miles non- stop flight.

Scheduled to arrive at 11:45 a.m. Walls will deliver a written invitation from Mayor Robert Riley of New Madrid to Cape Girardeau Mayor Howard Tooke inviting citizens of his town to attend the hydro speed classic in New Madrid.

Walls' opening performance when he will fly to heights of 1,000 to 1,500 feet is scheduled for noon on the day of the boat races. He will make a second appearance between races later in the afternoon.

Burlison to take part in congressional fuel hearing

U. S. Rep. Bill Burlison of Cape Girardeau will take part in a congressional hearing today on the nation's fuel shortage and how it affects farmers and small businessmen. The hearing is scheduled today in Florissant, a suburb of St. Louis.

It will be conducted by U. S. Rep. William Hungate, of Troy, chairman of the House Subcommittee on Special Business Problems.

Duke Ligon, director of the Department of Interior's Office of Oil and Gas, is scheduled to testify. The department is administering the Voluntary Oil Allocation program.

Rep. James Symington, St. Louis, who will also participate in the hearings, said Ligon will be able to brief midwestern farmers and independent gasoline marketers on the fuel situation.

Hearing date set

JEFFERSON CITY — The application of Arkansas Missouri Power Company to lease and operate the electric system of the City of Gideon will be heard by the Missouri Public Service Commission Aug. 23.

The hearing will begin at 10 a.m. in the Commission hearing room in the Jefferson Building, Jefferson City.

Those who wish to intervene and participate in the case must file a written application with the Commission by Aug. 13.

Anyone who wishes to testify in the case but does not want to intervene should communicate with Harry Wiggins, PSC General Counsel.

Arkansas - Missouri Power and the city have agreed to a lease of 20 years' duration under which the company will make annual rental payments on the system.

Payments are to cover the city's annual principal installments and interest on $300,000 in bonds issued by the city when it purchased the system last year from the Gideon - Anderson Lumber Company.

Arkansas- Missouri said in its application that it plans to spend $40,000 for improvements to the system to provide better voltage and to increase capacity.

The company said it will continue to provide service to present customers of the system and to charge the same rates as those used for cities of the same classification as Gideon.

Health program begins 9th year

LILBOURN — Delmo Migrant Health Services Tuesday began its ninth year of service to Southeast Missouri migrant farm families, according to an announcement by the project coordinator, Francis James.

During the eight- year history in the Bootheel under the sponsorship of Delmo Housing Corporation, James said hundreds of migrant and seasonal farm families have been assisted with medical, dental, drug and hospital bills.

The program is funded primarily by the U. S. Health Service in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"During these past eight years, hundreds and hundreds of farm labor families have been assisted with their medical bills," James said. "Several hundred people now see more clearly, are spared headaches, and are able to do their work because of assistance with hospital bills for delivery of babies, operations or serious illness. Help in this category runs into thousands of dollars," James said.

The migrant health program, located in Delmo's headquarters at Lilbourn, has three fulltime staff members, James said.

The most common household pests, according to the Velsicol Chemical Corp., are roaches, ants, rats and mice, termites, spiders, wasps, beetles, mosquitoes, flies and silverfish and firebrats.

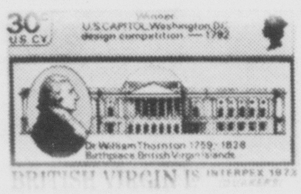
The British Virgin Islands, for the second consecutive year, are honoring the International Stamp Exhibition with a special set of new stamps. Also hailed on these stamps are three famous Quakers, two of whom were born on these islands.



Receiving philatelic tribute are Dr. John Coakley Lettsom, Dr. William Thornton and William Penn. The first two were born in the British Virgin Islands.

Dr. Lettsom, featured on the 1/2 cent and 10 cent stamps of this set, founded the famed Medical Society of London. He willed his home, Lettsom House, as the site of the House of the Medical Society. Dr. Lettsom's portrait appears on the 1/2 center while Lettsom House, the Lettsom Medal and Queen Elizabeth's vignette are on the 10 cent value.

Dr. Thornton is the designer of the United States Capitol, one of the most beautiful buildings in the world. He also designed the Philadelphia Library. The 15 cent stamp bears a portrait of Dr. Thornton while the 30 center shows the Capitol, Dr. Thornton and the Queen's effigy.

The $1 shows a portrait of William Penn, founder of Pennsylvania and the Philadelphia Library designed by Thornton.

Each value is multicolored and contains the inscription "Interpex 1973 (Quakers)." Interpex 1973 is sponsored by the American Stamp Dealers' Association and is annually held in New York City.

Twenty-four cents worth of U.S. stamps recently sold for $4,400.

An imperforate error block of four of the 6 cent Walt Disney U.S. stamps, the only one of its kind known, was sold for this fabulous price at auction. The block, with full gum, is from the lower left corner of the only imperforate pane of 50 ever found. It shows "Mr. Zip" and carries the words "Use Zip Code." Only one Mr. Zip appears on each sheet.

This is the first appearance of a block of the imperforate error. Pairs of the mistake sold late last year for $1,850.

The Federal Republic of Germany has issued two new stamps in tribute to two cities famous for tourism — Hamburg and Rudesheim. Both are seaports with Hamburg on the North Sea and Rudesheim on the Rhine, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

Views of ships passing by these cities with their famous buildings in the background are the main designs of the new stamps.

Anderson Mill to resume operation

NEW MADRID— Ralph Anderson Lumber Company mill on the Mississippi River at New Madrid will resume operatons Monday after having been idle for more than three months because of an extremely high stage of the river.

When operation begins, it will be with a new system of moving logs from the yard into the mill and with several other improvements, according to Robert W. Blom, president and general manager of the firm.

During the long shut- down, a skeleton crew of about 12 has been kept on the job, Blom said, and crews have repaired and improved machinery used in the mill, re- painted the several buildings on the mill lot and cleaned the yard.

Principal improvement is the addition of an automatic log conveyor which moves the logs into the mill proper for sawing into boards. The logs are loaded on the new conveyor with a large fork- lift after having been brought from the log yard on the river side of the levee. Previously the logs were carried in on a car on tracks from the yard.

In former days all logs were brought to the mill site in rafts on the river, but that system was changed several years ago and they are now transported here by barge on the river or by truck.

The new automatic log conveyor holds about 12 to 15 logs, which is sufficient to keep the mill saw operating long enough for another load to be brought by the forklift.

Blom said that his entire crew had been notified to return to their jobs Monday. Their return will bring to about 30 the number working at the mill. During the shutdown they have been covered by Unemployment Insurance.

What's the law?

The case of the unhappy cop

By: Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Detective Dinkle went on a two-week European junket with Big Julie, a reputed racketeer. Upon returning, he was immediately charged with conduct unbecoming a police officer in going on a vacation with so unrespectable a character as Big Julie.

Insisting that he was a victim of guilt by association, and that he had been a 100 per cent pure cop at all times, Dinkle unhappily turned in his badge, as requested, and then went to court where he demanded that he be reinstated to the force.

"I've always been a good cop," he told the judge, " and in the absence of any evidence to the contrary I shouldn't have been bounced. As for Big Julie, he's really a great guy. He's kind to little old ladies and believes in the red, white and blue."

"That's lovely," responded a police official. "But people just don't like to see cops being buddy-buddy with a racketeer. It hurts our image. It makes a farce out of the force. Consequently, whether or not his conscience is clear and whether or not he did anything wrong, Dinkly doesn't belong in the department and he's not entitled to be reinstated."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, Would you reinstate the unhappy cop?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a police department must maintain the respect of the public without which the department would be incompetent and demoralized. By taking a trip to Europe with a rackateer, concluded the judge, Dectective Dinkle should have known that it would adversely reflect upon the police department and subject it to disgrace, ridicule and disrespect. He had placed a blotch on the police department.

Judge resigns

CARUTHERSVILLE — Pemiscot County Magistrate Judge Jerry Stillman announced his resignation effective July 15.

In a letter to Missouri Governor Christopher Bond, Stillman said "it has been a pleasure to serve the citizens of this county and state. However, I intend to return to the private practice of law."

Stillman has been Magistrate for the past two years. Probate Judge Sidney Chaffin will take over the duties of Magistrate.

"I have discussed Section 482.060 R.S.Mo., with Sidney Chaffin, Probate Judge," Stillman commented, "and we are in agreement that no replacement will be necessary as it will be his duty under this section to assume the responsibility of Magistrate Judge."

"It came as a shock" Chaffin said concerning Stillman's resignation and Chaffin's takeover of the Magistrate's duties. "I didn't know it would happen.

"I think everything will turn out fine. It will only take a short while to get adjusted. Court days will remain the same."

Chaffin added that "I knew it would be soon when the Magistrate and Probate judgeship would be a single job. According to the section Judge Stillman mentioned, the Probate and Magistrate judgeship would be combined in this county as of Jan. 1, 1975".

Section 482.060 R.S. Mo. states:

"In counties of 30,000 or less, the Probate Judge shall qualify as judge of the Magistrate Court and his failure or refusal to do so shall constitute a vacancy in both the office of Probate Judge and office of judge of the Magistrate Court."

Population of Pemiscot County, according to the 1970 census, is 26,350.

Pemiscot County prosecutor Art Stephenson, who has had occasion to work closely with Judge Stillman over the past two years, remarked:

"I hate to see it (Stillman's resignation). I think Jerry's a good Magistrate. This office has had an excellent working relationship with the judge.

"We obviously did't always agree on my actions or on his actions, but that's why we have a judge and a prosecutor."

He added "I think Sidney Chaffin will make a good Magistrate Judge."

Sen. Cason to speak at Malden

MALDEN— William J. Cason, President Pro Tem of the Missouri Senate, will be guest speaker at the annual installation dinner of the Malden Chamber of Commerce July 26.

Sen. Cason, a native of Higginsville, resides in Clinton where he practices law. He has a B.S. degree in business administration and an LL.B. degree, magna cum laude, University of Missouri.

As a young man, he worked as a grocery clerk in Clinton and later was employed in business as an accountant. He has been engaged in the general practice of law since 1951 and is admitted to practice before the Supreme Court Missouri and the Federal Courts.

He served six years as prosecuting attorney of Henry County. Served three years as a bomber pilot, United States Army Air Corps, World War II.

Cason is a member of the Christian Church, Sigma Nu social fraternity, formerly active in Jaycees, and Chamber of Commerce. He was twice awarded the Distinguished Service Award by the Missouri Academy of General Practice for making the greatest contribution to the public health and welfare of the state of Missouri.

He has twice received the St. Louis Globe Democrat award for meritorious Public Service and Senate member most effective in debate. He received the Harry S. Truman Award in 1972, "for the legislator displaying the most outstanding leadership and public service."

In 1971 and 1972, Sen. Cason was selected Majority Floor Leader. He presently serves as chairman of the committees on Public Health, Welfare and Environment; Gubernatorial Appointments; Legislative Research; and Interstate Commerce. In addition, he is a member of eight other committees.

Cason was elected unanimously by his fellow Senators to serve as President Pro Tem of the Senate.

Tickets for the annual Chamber of Commerce dinner are now available at the Chamber office.

Pre-registration to be conducted at Three Rivers

POPLAR BLUFF — Pre-registration for the fall semester at Three Rivers Community College will be conducted throughout the month of July for incoming freshmen, according to Mrs. Mabel A. Swindel, dean of student services.

Students desiring to pre-register are required to complete these preliminary steps: make formal application for admission to Ben L. Pulliam, director of admissions and registrar, submit a transcript of high school grades and have taken the Missouri College Placement Tests.

After that, Pulliam will certify the names of the applicants to the counseling center, which will notify the applicant by letter of the time for an appointment with a counselor to complete pre-registration.

A minimum deposit of $50 is required of students at the time of pre- registration, except for those who have scholarships. Those with scholarships will be required to make a minimum deposit of $20.

The counselors will inform the applicants in detail about the steps to be taken for completion of registration in advance of the regular enrollment dates of Aug. 22 and 23.

The pre- registration procedure offers a distinct advantage for freshmen, Dean Swindel said. It enables the student to get the individual attention of a counselor to discuss the educational objectives of the student, the course requirements for transfers and occupational goals, and time is provided for questions and answers about college procedures. It also enables the pre- registering student to make advance selection of classes.

System nearing reality

MALDEN — A transportation system for the City of Malden is becoming closer to being a reality, reports Charter Committee Chairman Dr. Larry Webster, Malden Area Transportation System (MATS).

Members of the committee are calling on area residents to sell $5 shares in the system and to accept donations. The money raised from selling shares will be placed in an escrow account to act as matching funds to secure federal or state funds in setting up a cooperative transportation system.

In the event no transportation system is established, this money will be refunded to each person who has purchased a share.

The money received as donations will be placed in an operating account and will be used to pay any expenses incurred during the process of obtaining a system and any unused monies from this account will also be refunded. To date, no money has been spent from either account.

Z. D. Hargraves is in charge of the business districts; senior citizens are canvassing door- to-door; and Dr. Webster is in charge of civic and industrial contacts.

When asked if MATS had been legally incorporated as a non- profit organization, Dr. Webster said they had not, but since MATS was sponsored by a non- profit organization (Malden JAYCEES) he had been told that any contribution would be tax deductible.

Dr. Webster emphasized that the goal of MATS was to obtain a transportation system for the City of Malden; a senior citizen system or a city wide transportation system. At present the committee is working to obtain either.

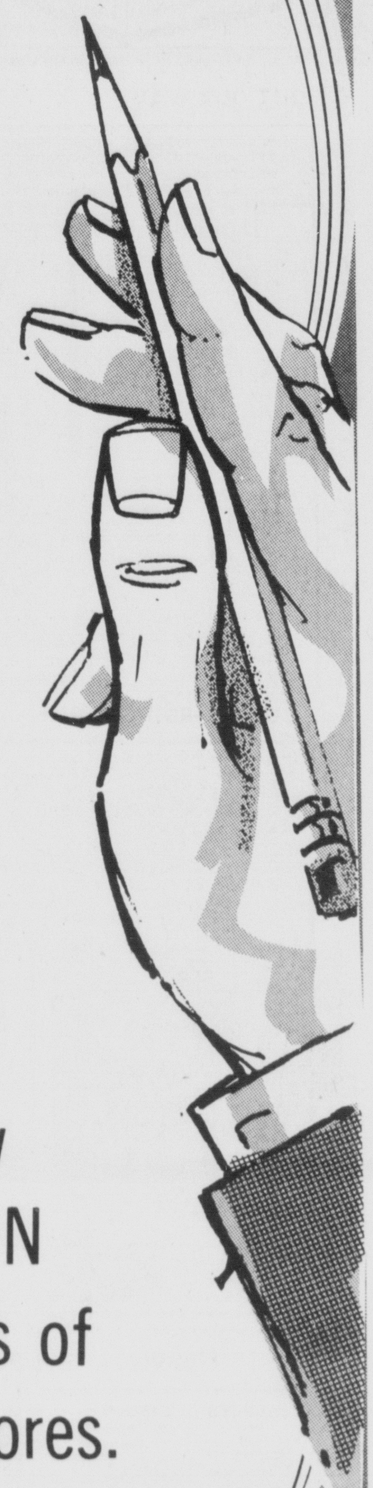
STATEMENT OF POLICY



Today we sold the first food stamps to Scott County residents.

We have been selling food stamps since October , 1971 .

We are more than pleased to accept responsibilities that help other people obtain a choice in what they are able to purchase as food. Now through this program many adults and young children can enjoy the flavor of some of their favorite foods and many will experience pride in being able to purchase their own food.

This progressive policy taken by the Scott County Court will in effect create the equivalent of more than four new industries with a payroll in excess of $250.,000.00 each. IN fact, the funds available under this program are in excess of $1,100,000.00 which can be spent with local grocery stores.

We are proud of the role that we have taken in this matter , both as to selling the stamps and redeeming them for the grocery stores who participate.

We want to publicly commend the food distributors and grocery store owners, as well as our County Court, for their progressive attitude and efforts in this program.
